TWITTER @RGBPROZONE: Circulating “The Business of RGB” DRAFT. TAGUP Needs-Assessment Online. Trial Slice of od curriculum. New video clips. Planning Conf. 2012.

The Business of RGB. We've added a bit to "The Business of RGB" and will be sending it to selected members on our distribution list to, hopefully, serve on a team to add flesh, refine, and make available to those interested in the business aspects of RGB delivery. This initiative is a direct result of a suggestion from our 2011 Reunionees - get practitioners involved in the development of the RGB Technology based on their experiences. Those we've selected to serve on this team have indicated an interest in this topic over the years and are likely the best qualified to participate.

Online TAG UP Needs-Assessment. Remember, members of a client TAG UP Team are those individuals in whom the client places sufficient credibility and confidence that they act as informal advisors as called upon. This group is always more than just "direct reports" and often dips into talent at or even beyond the front line and into the consumer and vendor circles. This online assessment formalizes the data collection process beyond the clients' customary methods and ideally adds a sense of unity to the advice and priorities thus gathered. Formulation of this vehicle is client system sensitive rather than static.

Trial Slice of od Curriculum. As many of you are aware, we have been considering the formalization of an od curriculum that, when perfected, can be delivered via multiple media at varied locations. The curriculum would be a "Workforce Capacity Development System" based on our technology. An opportunity recently presented itself at RGB II that will permit a trial of this "under development" option that crosses client organizations. RGB Certified Tammy Esteves, now a Californian, (distance learning expert) has asked to be involved in this project. Others will be included as the demands become more apparent.

New Video Clips. At recent RGB sessions we've been able to close the gap of "missing" video clips needed to complete the FastTrack video Playlist on our YouTube account. Only two clips remain to make this part of the collection complete and these will likely be available by the end of August. YouTube clips permit study in greater depth, especially for those who are undergoing remote certification.

Planning Conference Proposal 2012. We'll be submitting one or two proposals for the National Planning Association Conference in Los Angeles next April. Our focus is the dual track of preparing both the planners and the implementers for their tasks with RGB insights. Our secondary thread offers a strong sub-element of both a simple planning model and a complex planning model based on the OMR⁴ and UHS.

BONUS!!

It's a Boy - Due in Early February 2012! Abby and Brandon invited Elizabeth and I along with Brandon's parents, Mike and Cindy to an extraordinary event - a Fun Fetal Foto session in Hampton last weekend. We got to witness our new grandbaby in motion live in his first video debut. It was great!!
